DEAREST,

Have you heard of any nuptuals yet? I have heard quite to the opposite . . . but I won't bore you with this kind of talk.

Seriously, I heard that things looked good for the Leonia kid but I'm sure he knows it. M.J. heard form Julie just the other day and this is her word.

Getting to BIG BUSINESS, I must let you know that this was my reply to the letter that you received also from the Prince. Do as you may, of course, but come out on top. No, seriously, (note repetition of word in overworked, miserable vocabulary) do let me know what you all decide to do and if I can be of any more assistance, drop me a line.

I heard from Uncle Funnel the other day and he is certainly leading a loafer's life this summer. If there is any possibility that you two can make the trip out here, merely ca ll us from the Five O'Clock Club, a few miles out, and we'll stir up a larger shaker for the evening.

1 more month before I have to look on your miserable visage,

Lovingly,

JBS

Dear Mr. Whiteman, August 1, 1955

As the saying goes, I am sure that the public relations director of Queen Elizabeth's administration would not curtail her riding in the forests around Marlboro just because HUSH HUSH Inc., of South Bridgeport, U.S.A., a widely read and highly informative publication, intimated that she was having a rendez-vous with the castle gardener. I am convinced, and you must be also, that as long as Yale University remains in it's dominant position in Education, such stupid slurs as this will continue. I can envision all sorts of examples like the one given above but I will spare you this. Obviously, this paragraph is an exaggeration of our viewpoint and I am sure that we can work out something completely satisfactory to Yale and Rheingold. But, I am always chagrined to observe the alarm over the supposed force of these publications in the University's administration.

I have asked Ted Calleton to inform me of the complete format for the Rheingold girl's visit which is scheduled for September 13, and I know that he has worked out a most suitable plan as far as we are concerned. I know that last year's holocast caused a bit of consternation in your office (understatement) but it did in ours' as well. Ted will correspond with you on this matter since it is under his juristiction, as far as the station goes, and he has complete liberty to make any plans that are agreeable to us all.

To change the subject . . . Sir, . . . (note profound humility and acquiesence at this point) I wonder if you can be of some help to us just now. Mr. Toti's office has been of absolutely no help to us at all this summer. We have been striving, I think diligently, to go ahead and sell the Harvard and Princeton football broadcasts to a national sponsor and thusly take the financial burden off the fifty-odd alumni clubs that have had to pick up the line charges themselves in the past. There would seem to be mutual benefit to all except the sponsor, perhaps, but Mr. Toti has not even bothered to answer three very important letters. Could you inform me whether he has been replaced or whether he is sick or on vacation because it is of the utmost importance that we have a good connection with the Alumni office during these negotiations.

Again, I pledge Ted's and the entire station's complete cooperation in any matter that has arisen or will arise . . . as always.

Hello to everyone in the office and to Joan especially as her wedding approaches this month.

Cordially,

OTHER SIDE, KALTS . . .
